

Mercedes M-Class Named Top Safety Pick By U.S. Insurance Institute For Highway Safety

The U.S. Insurance Institute for Highway Safety (IIHS) has just named the 2007 Mercedes-Benz M-Class a Top Safety Pick for the 2007 model year. After extensive testing involving both frontal and side impact crashes as well as the level of protection offered in a rear-end collision, the IIHS found that the M-Class performed at the highest caliber in all three areas, thus naming it one of their top picks for 2007. Of course, this is just the latest of the many praises bestowed upon the Mercedes SUV. Last year, the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration concurred with the IIHS' findings when they, after conducting their New Car Assessment Program (NCAP), awarded the M-Class their highest possible five-star rating.
