

Mercedes-Benz USA Sales Up 3% In January

{mosgoogle right} Today marks the start of a new month, and all of my loyal readers know that can mean only thing - it's time for some financials. First up is Mercedes-Benz USA, who, coming off its twelfth consecutive year of sales growth, is reporting sales of 12,469 new vehicles for the month of January, an increase of 3% over January of 2005. The C-Class was MBUSA's volume leader last month with 3,098 units sold, while the runner-up spot again goes to the always stable E-Class with 2,465 units sold.
