

Mercedes Offers Two New E-Class Models With Environmentally Friendly Drive Systems

At the 2007 International Motor Show in Frankfurt this past September Mercedes outlined their upcoming plans for a more environmentally friendly future, highlighting 19 particularly economical and clean models all featuring intelligent drive technologies. Now, just several weeks later, Mercedes has begun making this vision a reality, offering two new E-Class models which both offer heightened levels of fuel efficiency and eco-friendliness.

Â

Read moreÂ