New Mercedes-Benz E-Class Notes Highest Resale Value In Residual Value Forecast

{mosgoogle right}If you're the type of person that enjoys spending your time reading residual value forecasts for various automotive segments, you'll be absolutely delighted to learn that the new Mercedes E-Class will in the next three years note the highest resale value of any vehicle in the luxury segment. According to calculations by the market research institute Bähr & Fess Forecast, the new E250 CDI will retain up to 62.5 percent of its current new price – placing it atop the luxury heap. Furthermore, as a result of its performance, the Mercedes E250 CDI has also been bestowed with the "2009 value retention champion" award, an accolade given every year by the German publication Auto-Bild.
